

Palpung Lungtok Choeling

The Palpung Lungtok Choeling Congregation would like to invite you to a very special event.

Ceremony Details:

Date: Saturday July 30, 2011
Time: 3pm to 4:30 p.m.
Place: Palpung Lungtok Choeling
2175 Santiago Ave
San Jose, CA 95122

Join the celebration as 20 bay area college bound students are awarded scholarships.

Palpung (Glorious Accumulation) Lungtok (Teaching & Practicing to Reach Enlightenment) Choeling (Dharma Center) has established this scholarship fund because it uses a basic tenet of Buddhism which is loving-kindness and compassion. The mission of Buddhism is to help people and all sentient being to become free from suffering and obtain lasting happiness therefore giving them hope for a better future. Buddhists do not just worship and pray for a better future, they put their beliefs into action. They reach out to the community and apply their Buddhist principles.

The Palpung organization believes that education is the cornerstone of our future and that young people are the key element for a better world. Therefore, this organization is offering a $1,000 scholarship to each college bound student to give them an opportunity to succeed, grow, and become good examples and role models for other young people.

This year's recipients are:

Rafael Aguayo (Hayward), Amber Andrade (San Francisco), Anna Bach (Oakland), Jenny Chen (Oakland), Ying Hsuan Chen (Fremont), Jieun Choi (Sunnyvale), Patricia Karen Cruz (Soledad), Daniela Espinosa (San Jose), Karen Gallardo (Vacaville), Rosa Gomez (San Francisco), Dalena Ha (Oakland), Jessica Kong (Oakland), Petty Lai (Oakland), Jessica B.
